FOSTER INSISTS ON KILLING SELF

Wyoming Cattleman Makes Several More Ineffectual Efforts at Destruction.

Notwithstanding the close watch kept upon him, Roy Foster, the Wyoming cattleman who attempted suicide in the city jail on Thursday, came close to ending his life at the county jail yesterday.

Foster was kept in the padded cell during the night and yesterday morning he appeared entirely rational. He said he felt better and apologized for the trouble he had caused the officers the day before. He was given permission to leave the padded cell to bathe his face and hands. Everything that might aid him in his work of self-destruction was taken from the place. The officers left him alone for a few moments and when they returned found him forcing a piece of a towel down his throat.

Later he was given a tin cup of water. From this he wrenched the handle and attempted to sever the artery in his wrist. He also attempted to cut his wrist with a bit of string which he found in the cell, and attempted to choke himself with a piece of bandage while the physician was dressing his injuries. The muffer used to prevent insane persons from injuring any one was placed on his hands and will be kept there until his mind becomes rational.

E. T. WOOLLEY BANKRUPT.

Liabilities in His Name and Assets in His Wife's.

E. T. Woolley, formerly bishop of the Fourth ward, Ogden, ex-manager of the Utah Knitting works and the Consolidated Wagon & Machine company, has filed a petition in bankruptcy before Judge A. B. Patton. His liabilities are placed at $24,000, without any assets. According to the appraisal made in the case a house valued at $5,000 and furniture valued at $2,000 are in Mrs. Woolley's name.

Seventh Stonecifer Complaint.

Another complaint charging Dr. H. L. Stonecifer with practicing dentistry without a license was filed in the city court yesterday by Dr. W. G. Dalrymple, representing the board of dental examiners of the state. This makes the seventh time that Dr. Stonecifer has been sued on this charge. He was convicted on July 22 of this year. Most of the other cases were defeated because of technicalities. A similar complaint was also filed against George F. Corbin, the United Dental company of this city.

NEVADA MEN INDIGNANT

Have Veterinary Surgeon Arrested Because He Prescribed for Them.

C. Perring swore out a complaint yesterday charging L. A. Legaren, a local veterinarian, with representing himself to be a regular physician. It seems that Perring and a companion by the name of Lash, who have been employed for the past year on the Western Pacific, came to town the other day and, feeling a bit under the weather, called upon the veterinarian for treatment, thinking him a physician.

The horse doctor readily prescribed for their ailments and they departed. Finding later, however, that Legaren was not a regular physician, they returned and Lash succeeded in getting the $2.50 which his prescription had cost him, refunded. Perring was less fortunate, whereupon he had the doctor arrested. The latter is and officers were sent out in all directions. Officers Robert Burke and George Wardlaw were walking along Washington avenue when the three men came around the corner from Twenty-sixth street. Recognizing them from the descriptions the officers covered them with guns and by forcing them to throw up their hands reversed the situation on the robbers. At the police headquarters all of the plunder was found on the robbers, and it was identified by the owners. Chambers had a watch stowed away in one of his socks.

Dinning, apparently new in the holdup business, confessed and implicated his confederates, who had refused to reply to questions. The police believe that Chambers and McGuire are old offenders. They were locked up in isolated cells at the police station and Dinning was taken to the county jail.

Wants $295 Damages.

Alleging that Cora Scherer assaulted her with a hand satchel while she was a passenger on the Salt Lake & Ogden road at Lagoon on Aug. 23 last, Mrs. W. O. Stanley of this city brought a civil action in the city court yesterday to recover $225 damages. The complaint filed yesterday does not relate what the trouble was about, merely reciting that on the day mentioned while she was sitting in a car before the train started for Ogden Mrs. Scherer assaulted her by raining blows on her head, face and body with a hand satchel, inflicting bodily pain, suffering and distress of mind and feelings. She also alleges that the assault subjected her to insult and indignities and humiliated her before the passengers on the train to the extent for which she asks damages.

Holst Engineer Injured.

Fred McFarland, a holst engineer at Lagoon station, fell off the platform on Thursday and was painfully injured. He was unconscious when picked up and was brought to Ogden for treatment at the Ogden General hospital. It is feared he cannot recover.

Contract Is Signed.

The formal contract between the city and the waterworks company was signed confined in jail awaiting an investigation as to whether he can be tried for treating other than animals.

DEATH OF JOHN MCARTY.

Southern Pacific Trainmaster Expires of Kidney Trouble.

John McCarty, a Southern Pacific trainmaster, died yesterday at his home, 2362 Adams avenue, from kidney trouble, with which he had been ailing for about a year. Mr. McCarty was one of the best known railroad officials in this city, and his death comes as a severe shock to all who knew him.

Mr. McCarty was born in Fremont, O., Aug. 9, 1855. Following railroading for a livelihood, he worked himself up from the ranks to the positions of traveling conductor and trainmaster. He entered the service of the Southern Pacific in 1893, served as trainmaster at Mina, Nev., for about a year, and upon the death of the late E. S. Lutz he was appointed to the trainmastership in this city. While he had suffered from kidney trouble for about a year, it was within the past week or two that his illness became dangerous. During the past few days he was in an unconscious state.

Mr. McCarty is survived by his widow and four children. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made, but it will likely be held on Sunday.
